

Cookie notice.

Mosaic therapy.

What are cookies used for?

Mosaic therapy uses cookies to ensure that the website functions properly.

Mosaic therapy uses cookies to understand how visitors use the website.

In order to ensure that the website functions properly on multiple browsers and devices.

Improve user experience.

What are cookies?

Small files that are stored on your device and that remember basic information about your searches in order to improve your browsing experience.

Disclaimer:

The website of 'Mosaic Therapy' uses only essential cookies (nothing more than what is strictly necessary) in order to improve the performance of the website. Cookies on this website are not used for tracking, marketing or advertising on any other website.

Your decision.

You can decide whether you want to accept or decline cookies at any time from your browser settings as well as manage the cookies settings.

If cookies are declined there is a possibility that the website might not function at its optimum levels.

Why is this important?

'Mosaic therapy' is guided and follows the BACP ethical framework at all times. Some of the ethical responsibilities of Mosaic therapy are to offer clients: clear communication, respect and transparency.

Under UK GDPR and PECR (Privacy and Electronic Communications Regulations) you have the right to:

- Know what data is collected.
- Have the right to choose whether or not cookies are used
- Availability of clear information about how and why your data is being used.